Inconsistency.

Last week we received a valuable communication from one of our subscribers. The message came in the form of a postal. On one side was written—"Dear Sir: Please stop my paper at expiration. I did not subscribe for a democratic newspaper." On the reverse side of the card was a beautiful water scene, and under it the following verse, surrounded by an embossed border of forget-me-nots.

Here's that you may live a hundred happy years.
And I may live a hundred less one day,
For I don't care to live any longer
When all of you good fellows have passed away.
Now comes the most remarkable thing about the incident, the sender of the postal was a woman.

Used The Wrong Word.

Down here in Cactus Center we ain't much on splittin' hairs;
In the fancy shades of language we are putting on no airs,
But we are shy one young reporter—it was strange how it occurred—
Who mused up a brilliant future when he chose just one wrong word.

He hustled local items for the "stockmen's Weekly Star";
He was young and plumb ambitious, and he made friends near and far;
An' never knocked nobody, but he always tried to boost,
And we thought, he'd make a wonder on the journalistic roost.

And he wrote with good intentions, as most everyone allows,
"Our townman, Pecos Johnson, has gone south to rustle cows."
He meant to say that Pecos was a round-up his brand,
For he didn't know that "rustle" meant to thieve in Cattle Land.

When Pecos Johnson read it he put on an extra gun,
And he came to town a frothin' with his bronco on the run;
The reporter got a warnin' and he hopped a cowboy's beast
And he started navigatin' for the calm and distant East.

We got old Pecos quiet when he'd tusted up the press,
And had shot holes in the sanctum and made the type a mess;
And we'd like a bright reporter who is broke to Western slang—
No more such babes shall monkey with our newspaper shebang!

Broomcorn.

Last week the receipts of broomcorn were the heaviest since the holidays. The market is still good and strong, but shows little signs of an early advance. Twenty-one cars were shipped last week, making a total of 616 cars for the season. Estimates on the amount still in the hands of the farmers vary greatly, but the wise ones put it at about 100 cars. There are something like twenty cars of broomcorn in storage here, which runs up the amount of brush brought to Liberal to 635 cars. We are informed by reliable persons who seem to be in a position to know, that in spite of conflicting reports this is the best shipping season Liberal has had. Our reports of the market are not colored to boost the town, but are as accurate as can be procured, and are published each week for the benefit of those who want to know the prices, receipts, etc. in the market here.

The Democratic party of Kansas should be proud of its leadership in both branches of the legislature. No state legislature has in its membership stronger and abler men than may be found in the Democratic minority. In the house, Orr of Atchison, Brown of Kingman, Carney of Cloud, Kelley of Shawnee, Beder of Barton, Maloy of Morris and Goddard of Leavenworth; all men who will be sought in the make-up of the next Democratic state ticket. And over in the senate is Hodges of Johnson, Robertson of Rawlins, and Anderson of Bourbon, who will fit in anywhere from the United States senator down.
